INSTITUTIONAL RESEARCH AND EFFECTIVENESS

GOVERNORS STATE UNIVERSITY

2014-15

Letter From President Dr. Elaine Maimon

The 2014-15 edition of Governors State University's Fact Book is the definitive source for university information. The Fact Book chronicles GSU's progress during the past year – progress that is evident in our academic programs, service to students, and physical surroundings.

Following the guidelines set forward in Vision 2020, the entire GSU campus is committed to educating a growing, diverse student body and fulfilling our mission as a unifying force in the south suburbs. Our nationally recognized Dual Degree Program (DDP) just celebrated its fifth birthday. The DDP is a model partnership between GSU and seventeen community college campuses, which provides a seamless pathway from associate to bachelor degree.

GSU will welcomed its first freshman class in the Fall of 2014, right after we opened our first residence facility, Prairie Place, which provides a living/learning experience for students at all levels of instruction. Freshmen study Big Ideas in small classes, with a maximum of 30 students per section, except for English composition, where the limit is 18. First-year students are be taught by full-time, experienced, and fully dedicated faculty members, giving our students an advantage that other universities cannot match.

GSU serves as a Public Square for the entire Chicago Southland. The Center for Performing Arts offers a variety of shows: Opera Up Close, One More Night of acclaimed performances from Chicago, and a spectacular program of children's theater. We are pleased that 34,000 school children attend live performances each year. The internationally recognized Nathan Manilow Sculpture Park makes our campus a place where great art is a part of everyday life. Students live in art.

GSU is committed to educating citizens. Civic engagement is infused throughout the curriculum, preparing students for full participation in our democracy.

This edition of the Fact Book offers information on a wide range of topics. How large is GSU? What are the demographics of our student body? Where do our alumni live, and what do they think about GSU? What is our impact on the local economy? How does GSU compare with other public institutions within Illinois? The data clearly document our progress.

I hope you will find the 2014-15 Fact Book a useful reference as you learn more about Governors State University.

About Governors State University

About GSU: Quick Facts

Founded in 1969, Governors State University has grown from a campus held in a warehouse with a few hundred students to 5,776 in fall 2014, the third straight year of growth. Within that population are 3,585 undergraduate students now studying in all four academic years with the addition of lower-division studies in 2014. Nearly 70% (69.9%) of the campus is female and the multicultural, diverse campus includes 2,222 African-American students (38.5%), 488 Hispanic or Latino students (8.4%) and is 50.0% minority. In addition to the gender and ethnic/racial diversity, the campus is diverse by age with 18 year-old freshmen, 30 year-old undergraduates, and more than 10% of the campus aged 50 or older. “Traditional”-aged students (age 18-24) make up only 30.6% of the student body.

Because of the non-traditional nature of our student body, it is exciting to see 50.8% of our most recent fall transfer undergraduates (entering Fall 2012) graduating within three years of arriving on campus and almost 70% (69.7%) graduating within six years (entering Fall 2009). 58.6% of master’s students graduated within four years (entering Fall 2011) and 56.3% of doctoral students graduated within the same timeframe (doctoral studies began in 2007).

About GSU: History

Governors State University is the only public university in Chicago's rapidly growing south suburban area, serving approximately 7,000 students during the course of a year. GSU provides affordable and accessible undergraduate and graduate education to culturally and economically diverse life-long learners. The university's high-quality educational programs are enhanced by its commitment to maintaining and increasing accessibility to its students and the community.

At its founding on July 17, 1969, Governors State University embodied the most optimistic vision of the 1960s. It believed in its students and their ability to learn and succeed. So it took a deliberate step away from the "establishment" and forged opportunity through experimentation. It didn't have grades; it had competencies. It didn't have departments; it had "interdisciplinary studies." Most importantly, it didn't exclude. GSU made education available to a growing population of community college students (GSU was an upper-division undergraduate institution, when it was founded there were no freshmen or sophomores) and to all adults who sought a higher education - a higher purpose.

Beginning in Fall 2014, GSU began a transformation. Lower-division coursework was added with full-time students taking a cohort-based curriculum taught by full-time faculty. Campus housing was added and Prairie Place was opened with rooms available for every type of student creating a full-service, 24/7 campus. Athletics was added with Men's Basketball, Women's Basketball, Volleyball, and Cross Country. Within one year 60% of freshmen were still on campus, housing was at 100% capacity with a waiting list, and GSU was a member of the Chicagoland Collegiate Athletic Conference in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. GSU continues to embody the 60s spirit: It continues to innovate and experiment, and it aims for a campus welcome to all types of students.

About GSU: Diversity Fall 2014

Diversity is nothing new for Governors State University. In 1972, GSU proclaimed its "responsibility to serve the educational needs of low-and middle-income and minority students." Today the world calls that diversity, and GSU's historical commitment to it has produced a very diverse student body (51% of GSU students are of racial and/or ethnic minorities, and 2% of the student body identified as non-resident aliens).

Of GSU's faculty who have identified their race/ethnicity, 28% are members of a minority group (Black, Hispanic, Asian, Pacific Islander, American Indian/Alaska Native, two or more races) which is almost double the national average for American universities (19% of faculty members who self-identified in 2011 --the most recent year for which national statistics are available, according to the 2013 NCES Digest of Educational Statistics, Table 315.20). More significantly, GSU doubles the national average for Black faculty (nationally, 7% of those who self-identified) with 15.2% African-American faculty.
