The “Art Gathering” series is curated to highlight specific fields within the visual arts and to bring communities of artists together to demonstrate the interconnectedness of the artists themselves, their work, peers and arts appreciators.

This exhibition theme of community and collaboration continues with “Art Gathering: Ceramic Artists Throw and Build” by inviting artists to submit work that demonstrates these themes through use of material, symbolic references, or by the artist’s practice. The ways that people gather around art is of particular interest, through involvement with organizations such as Lillstreet Studios and others like it.
