

2014 Education Leadership Conference

The DNA of Successful Schools Academic Press + Community of Care

Sept. 25-26

Congress Plaza Hotel

(Downtown Chicago, just blocks away from the Chicago Gourmet event in Millennium Park)

Featuring Dr. Joseph Murphy, one of the top ten education scholars in the United States (Education Week; January 2014)

“Dr. Murphy’s sessions are both valuable and enjoyable. He knows how to link theory to practice and his warm, humorous style keeps us coming back for more.”

- workshop participant

Dr. Murphy, in his most recent book, “Creating Productive Culture: Communities for Students, Teachers and Parents”; Murphy and Torre (2014) Corwin Press, present the research on why academic press alone is not enough to get desired outcomes. He offers frameworks for establishing supportive cultures for students and staff to have the greatest impact on student success.

This two-day workshop for superintendents, district office administrators, principals and other educational leaders links this significant research with practical applications for implementation of this important work.
