Summary of Key Speaker:

Pastor Fleshman educated us on the dangers of fentanyl, and overdose awareness.

Here are a few notes we were given on fentanyl:

Fentanyl is extremely potent: Just two milligrams of fentanyl (think: a tiny grain of salt) can be fatal for the average person. It is odorless, tasteless, and invisible to the naked eye. Fentanyl comes in two primary forms: pharmaceutical fentanyl and illicitly manufactured fentanyl.

Illicit fentanyl has been found in all street drugs and comes in a powdered, pill, and liquid form. Illicit drugs do not come with an ingredient list. Many contain deadly doses of fentanyl. The powdered version of fentanyl looks like other illicit drugs and is mixed with substances like heroin, cocaine, and methamphetamine. How is it used? Powdered fentanyl can be snorted, injected, or smoked using tin foil, a lighter and a plastic straw.

Drug cartels also use fentanyl to manufacture fake prescription pills that resemble commonly prescribed opioids such as Oxycodone and Percocet and other prescriptions such as Xanax and Adderall, all of which are popular party drugs used by teens. Teens who buy pills and other drugs on the street or social media have no way of knowing if what they're getting has fentanyl. Illicit fentanyl can also be found in liquid form. Liquid fentanyl is found in nasal sprays, eye drops, or is absorbed in the mouth with a blotter paper. Fentanyl's potency and cheap cost are also the reason why drug dealers are mixing it into other drugs, making them more addictive and increasing the risk of a fatal overdose to the unknowing user.

Opioid overdoses are caused by drugs like heroin, OxyContin, Morphine, Fentanyl, etc. They are most common and are much more likely to cause death than stimulant overdoses because opioids affect the body's ability to breathe. Signs of someone overdosing from opiates are: Unresponsiveness to shouting or shaking or pain, Slowed or stopped breathing, Lips and fingers turning blue, Choking or gurgling sounds, and/or Slow or stopped heartbeat.
